SCRANTON TO NORTHUMBERLAND.

A charter has been obtained for an electric railroad from Scranton to Northumberland, running through all the towns along the line. The capital is $500.000.

The incorporators are: President, J. R Coyle, Shenandoah; directors, H. O. Rodgers, George H. Troutman, T. H. Hutchinson, George A. Wilkinson, L. O. Emerick, Dominic F. Sweeny, A. T. McAllister, Hazleton.

The Philadelphia Record comments on it thus:

"The line laid out for the Northumberland, Bloomsburg, and Scranton Street Railway Co., which was chartered at Harrisburg, runs parallel with the track of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad throughout its entire length of about 80 miles. An excellent pike road winds along the valley of the north branch of the Susquehanna, which, when not covered by flood waters, would afford an excellent foundation for the tracks of an electric railway. The progress of this experiment in rapid transit between the flourishing communities of the Lackawanna coal district will be noted by the public with no little interest."

A. A. Drake prints in the Bellefonte Republican an open letter to State Senator P. Gray Meek, in regard to the game laws, which at nearly every session of the Legislature are subject to revision. The writer declares that under the existing laws there is little encouragement for any one to spend time or money for the protection of game or fish. That this is true everyone with the slightest familiarity with the subject is well aware. It is the height of folly to spend money in stocking the streams with fish and then permit poaching to be done, as it is done with impunity. The game laws do not need to be relaxed. They need to be made more strict and to be executed.

The Sullivan Review, published at Dushore, is fifteen years old, and evidently enjoys a fair share of public confidence and patronage. Editor Newell prints a paper full of news.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

The union revival meetings inaugurated by five of the churches of Bloomsburg, with Rev. E. E. Davidson as evangelist began last Sunday afternoon with a young people's meeting in the Opera House. The large hall was crowded and Rev. Davidson's plain, practical talk to the young people about the importance of the work to be done by them in connection with these revival meetings was listened to with close attention. The sermon was followed by a consecration meeting in which about one hundred took part.

In the evening three simultaneous union services were held, one in the Opera House, one in the Reformed church and one in the Methodist church. The churches had very fair congregations, the Opera House was again crowded.

The meeting in the Opera House began with a song service. A large choir of about eighty voices with Mr. F. B. Hartman as chorister, and Mrs. Holmes as organist, has been secured to lead in the singing. The male choir, under the direction of Prof. Niles, rendered three selections during the meeting.

Mr. Davidson preached another very practical sermon on personal duty from the text, "Lord what wilt thou have me to do?" Acts 9:6. The question is not what the Evangelist is going to do, but what are you going to do? God does not want us to wait to see if the meetings are going to be successful and popular. If you withhold your support the meetings will come just that far short of their fullest success, for the word laid upon us by the Master can not be done by another, and must be forever undone, if we fail to do it.

Mr. Davidson then went to the Methodist church, and after brief addresses from Dr. Waller and Rev. Heilman, the congregation was dismissed.

Monday afternoon a children's meeting was held in the Opera House, which, notwithstanding the falling snow, was attended by over three hundred.

They were quite pleased with Mr. Davidson's apt talk to them, promised to help him in the work by prayer and deed and voted to have another meeting next Monday.

At the evening meeting Mr. Davidson preached another of his very practical and instructive sermons, his text being Isa. 59; 1, 2. One of the prevalent sins of the church is unbelief. I do not mean to say that church members are infidels but many of them have only a half belief in God's power and willingness to save. We are too apt to think that this is a bad community, we cannot have a revival here. An English boy having gone to a distant part of the farm in his bare feet, decided to take a short cut home through the fields. He had to cross a stream which he could easily jump over. Standing back a little distance, he ran with all his might to make the leap and placed his bare feet on a sleeping serpent which had coiled itself on the bank of the stream. He said he would never forget the feeling of horror which ran through him as his bare foot touched the cold clammy snake. So should we be filled with horror at the first indication of unbelief in our hearts.

Lukewarmness, worldliness, avarice, quarrels, and neglect of duty were named as other sins of the church. The great danger to the church to-day is not the opposition which comes from without, but the loss of spiritual life within it and the tendency to assimilate itself with the world. Men of note in the scientific world are not opposed to the church of Christ as is so commonly supposed. Churches never were so numerous, so wealthy, and so influential as to day.

A meeting was held in the Lutheran church Tuesday afternoon and again in the Opera House in the evening for which the hall was well filled.

Services will be held during the week until Saturday, in the Lutheran church at 4 o'clock, and in the Opera House at 7:30 o'clock.

Normal School Notes.

Just a line this week to remind our readers that this Friday evening, Feb, 17, is the time for our splendid entertainment in the Students' Lecture Course by Edward P. Elliott.

The drama he renders is "Lend Me Five Shillings", and so real does he make every one of the seven characters that the entire audience at once pronounce him an artist of unusual ability.

The diagram is open at W. H. Brooke & Co's store.

Washington's Birthday, Wednesday, the 22nd inst. is the next holiday.

HE WANTS LIGHT.

We have not the pleasure of the acquaintance of the young man who conducts the Berwick Independent. but if he really wants some light on the suoject of job printing we would suggest that he enter a first class printing office like THE COLUMBIAN and thus learn something about the business in the usual way. For his benefit however, we do not mind telling him that an office that understands how to do its own gumming and binding, and is provided with numbering machines, can procure the paper for 1000 township election tickets for 45 cents. When a printer has to give all the profit in a job to some one in the city who does for him what he does not know how to do himself, of course he can't expect to make much. The "intelligent reader" can thus easily see why it is that a printer who has to buy his ballot paper ready gummed and perforated, at $3 50 a thousand cannot compete with another who buys the paper in bulk and does all the work at home If he wants more light, we would suggest that with three presses run by water power, we are perhaps better equipped for the work than an office with only one press, run by foot power.

Our esteemed Berwick contemporary evidently is disappointed about something, or he would not have indulged in those remarks about our getting a "pull elsewhere", and suggested that the price given is "only a blind". We confess we do get a good many "pulls," but they come to us in the shape of job printing because of our superior facilities. As to the price being a "blind," it will be very easy, to ascertain that, after the work is done; it is a mere matter of multiplying the number of thousands by the price per thousand.

We are not kicking at all. On the other hand we are extremely grateful to all those who have so kindly advertised us as being able to do printing at the lowest possible rates. People throughout the county should make a note of this, and when they want good work at reasonable prices, call at THE COLUMBIAN OFFICE.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

LOWENBERG—DREIFUSS.

At high noon Tuesday, Miss Regina Lowenberg, one of Bloomsburg's most popular and accomplished society girls, was united in marriage to Wolf Dreifuss, a prominent and successful young merchant of Milton, Pa. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother on Main street, and the impressive Jewish marriage ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, the Rev. H. Rubin of Wilkes-Barre. At precisely 12:30, to the beautiful strains of Mendlessohn's wedding march, played by Miss Emma Townsend, the bridal couple, accompanied by the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Dreifuss of Danville and the bride's mother and uncle, Mrs. D. Lowenberg and Mr. David Kohns of New York City, slowly marched into the parlor and under a chandelier embowered in smilax and carnations the happy pair were made man and wife. The solemn Jewish ritual was in German and Hebrew and was preceded by a sermon which eulogized the meritorious qualities of the deceased father of the bride, the late lamented David Lowenberg. The bride wore a beautiful dress, made of blue figured silk trimmed with blue crepe de chene and the groom the conventional black prince albert. Both tall and of fine outward appearance, they made a handsome couple indeed. After many heartfelt congratulations the bridal party and guests proceeded to the dining room and partook of a repast which included all the delicacies of the season. The glasses clinked many times after eloquent speeches and witty toasts full of praise for the bride's many virtues and the groom's wisdom in his choice. The wedding presents which were entirely too numerous to mention, included many elegant pieces of cut glass, a great quantity of fine solid silverware, elaborate ornaments and furniture, beautiful china and glass sets and several checks for large sums of money, The bridal couple left amid showers of rice on the 4 p. m. train for the south. They will spend their honey moon in Washington, Baltimore and Old Point Comfort and upon their return will take up their residence in Milton. Regina's many Bloomsburg friends wish her a long life of happiness and prosperity in her new home. The guests from a distance, all relatives of the bride and groom, were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. L. Kohns, Mr. David Kohns and Mrs Joseph Kaufman, of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Dreifuss, Mr. and Miss Dreifuss, of Danville. Mr. Joseph Lowenberg of Norristown, Mr. Wm. Lowenberg of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dreifuss, Mr. Sigmund and Miss Dreifuss of Milton, Mrs. M. Weinberg of Mahanoy City, Rev. H. Rubin, Miss Hannah Rubin, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koons and Mr. and Mrs. A. Kline of Wilkesbarre. Mr. Ullman of Tremont, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Abe Brown and Mrs. L. Sacks, of Pittston, Pa.

The reception given by Dr. and Mrs. I. W. Willits last Friday evening was an elegant affair, and was largely attended. During the evening the soft strains of excellent music were heard, emanating from Chas. P. Elwells' orchestra which was located in a room on the second floor. The refreshments were delicious, and were served very attractively in the dining room. Misses Annie Jameson and Maude Patterson presided at the table and served the coffee and chocolate. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers.

LOVE IN A LOG CABIN.

"And this is home!"

Ruth Delano gazed about her with a mingled feeling of wonder, joy and disappointment. Three thousand miles had she traveled across the continent to reach the home her husband had prepared for her, and this is what she found:

A lonely ranch among the foothills in Southern California, with a plain log cabin for a home. Not a vestige of a plant or flower around it, hills stretching brown and bare under the July sun, and not a shade tree in sight.

"One might know there never had been a woman near this place," said Ruth, her eyes slowly filling with tears. It seemed so comfortless and barren after leaving her mother's old-fashioned farm-house in Maine, full to overflowing with inviting, comfortable things, and surrounded with flower gardens and orchards, and where every nook and corner suggested the deft hands of a woman. She felt her very heart sinking within her. Then, seeing the eyes of her husband fixed upon her she forced back the tears. Had she not said, like the Ruth of old, "Whither thou goest, I will go; and whither thou lodgest, I will lodge?"

Would any place, no matter how full of comfort it might be, ever be home without him? Had she and her baby Ruth not wept tears of joy when the letter came telling them that papa was coming from California to take them home? And had not every foot of the way been a joy to think he was once more with them and that they were to have a home? She stroked the hand of her husband, who held their little Ruthie in his arms, smiling through her tears.

"I know, dear, it is a new country," she said, cheerfully, "and you have done the best you could."

It was the truly wifely spirit, and in his heart he blessed the true woman who said it.

"All the ranches look kind of desolate," he said, "where there's no one but men about; but now we've got a little woman here, things will soon be looking different."

Inside of the house she found everything neat, at least, and that was a great comfort to her, and if the parlor was barren-looking, with no carpet upon it, the kitchen was full of contrivances which women like, and she knew that John had thought of them for her. After supper they sat down on the little porch in front of the cabin to talk of plans for future work. It was just at sunset, and as Ruth sat placidly looking at the view in front of her—which, after all, was a fine one, taking in a glimpse of the blue Pacific and a background of purple mountains—she began to lose the undertone of homesickness which had so marred her home-coming. She thought how beautiful a home might really be under the shadow of the lifted pines, and she resolved, with John's help, she could make hers one to be proud of. As if in answer to her thought, John went into the house and returned in a moment laden with two parcels, which he dropped into her lap.

"There, Ruth," he said, "you can't guess what these are, can you?"

"I am afraid not," Ruth said, eying the mysterious-looking packages wonderingly.

"Well, you know the house isn't very beautiful yet," said John, his good face fairly shining with the little secret he had in store for her. "But I guess you'll find something in each of those parcels that will help you beautify it."

What could he mean? Ruth took up the lighter but larger one first. To her surprise it was full of garden seeds, small packages of every kind, almost, she could think of.

"Well, how lovely!" she said. "Now we shall raise all the vegetables we need, and our garden will rival dear mother's at home."

"Yes," said John, "and go ahead of it; for California beats the world for flowers, and your garden will be just as lovely in Winter as in Summer. There are twenty varieties of roses alone among that collection of seeds."

"Isn't it wonderful to think of?" cried Ruth, as delighted as a child over her treasures. "And what can be in here?" she continued, as she opened the second parcel. "Wonders will never cease," she exclaimed the next moment, as he poured a whole bag of silver into her lap. "And what is this for?"

"To buy your parlor furniture," he replied, laughing at her amazement.

"Honest?" She looked at him, her brown eyes sparkling.

"It is for Mrs. Delano to do with as she pleases," he said. "I have saved the money to furnish the cabin with, and thought to have fixed it up before you came, but concluded on second thought that you could do better than I; so there's the money. Buy what you please, and fix up the place to suit yourself."

"Well, if you ain't the best John in the whole country," Ruth said, almost laughing and crying in the same breath. How could she ever be homesick again? And that night, instead of crying herself to sleep, as she had thought that afternoon to do, she lay awake from very joy, thinking of the pretty things she could buy and make for the cabin, and imagining how picturesque it would look covered with Lady Banks roses, and how sweet the violet beds would be in the springtime. And so the very next day she set the hired man to work laying off a garden, and all that week and the next she spent her spare time in digging and hoeing and spading. The following week John took her to the nearest town, and she selected the various articles she desired for the house. She managed to furnish it quite comfortably, and under her deft fingers all things began to bear a homelike look. The place lost its barren and shiftless look, and even the dog Harold seemed to feel the change. He no longer wandered aimlessly about as though seeking a comfortable spot, but went to sleep a picture of perfect contentment on one of the soft rugs in the sitting room, keeping one zealous eye always half-open upon his playmate, Ruthie.

The months sped by in spite of all the hardships she had to endure—for life is hard for a woman in a new country—on light wings for Ruth. She made the best of all her trials, and was as sweet and contented as if she had been in the fair home they had owned and lost. Though often her limbs ached and her head was weary with the weight of work which fell to her share, she never complained. Not once did she grow fretful or reproach her husband for taking her so far from all that she loved.

"He is doing the best that he can," she always said to herself, "and what would a palace be without his love? Besides, how much I have to be grateful for." And somehow the remembrance of their first evening in the log cabin would always bring tears to her eyes. It was such a real proof of his love and thoughtfulness for her.

When the next Spring lengthened into Summer, and her sweet face began to wear a tired look that he did not like to see, he came to her one evening, saying gravely:

"Ruth, pack your trunk to-night; to-morrow I want to take you with me to San Diego. Important business calls me there, and you and Ruthie both need a change."

"But how can you leave the ranch?" Ruth asked, "just now when you are most needed?"

"Oh, Redly will take charge of the place, and the men will work for him as well as for me."

If Ruth had noticed him just then very carefully she might have seen a twinkle in his eyes that would have made her suspicious as to this "business trip" to San Diego, but like a dutiful wife she packed up and asked no foolish questions. When they reached San Diego, much to her surprise her husband did not go to a hotel. He gave the coachman some directions, and they were driven to an elegant-looking house in the suburbs.

"Why, I didn't know you had friends here!" exclaimed Ruth, in surprise.

"Oh, yes," said John. "I have a number of them. This is the home of the best friend I have in the world."

"Why!" John nearly took her breath away. She thought of her shabby travelling dress and Ruthie's shabbier cloak with dismay, but she made up her mind to make the best of it for John's sake, anyway. A lady could always be a lady, no matter how she was dressed. A neat servant opened the door and ushered them into a handsomer reception room. The house was beautiful inside, and everything was new and of the latest fashion. Ruth sank into a finely upholstered easy chair with a feeling of momentary content. For a moment she almost wished she might be the possessor of such a home, and then she put aside the envious wish.

"Make yourself at home, dear," John said, "while I see the master of the house. He is probably in his study. I will return when I have spoken to him privately. I know he will be delighted to know you are here, and will welcome you."

"How strange John never told me of this friend of his," Ruth said to herself, looking at the handsome engravings on the table near her. Presently he returned, but not as she expected, with the master of the house, whom she was feeling a little in awe of.

"Where is he?" she asked.

"Here."

"Here? Why, John, have you lost your mind? There is no one with you. You and I are alone." She began to look frightened. What if John had really lost his senses? He had certainly acted queer about this San Diego trip.

To her further amazement he burst into a loud laugh, and, taking a stand in the middle of the room, said, with a polite bow:

"Dear Mrs. Delano, allow me to introduce to you the master of this house, John Delano, esq., your humble servant. I am monarch of all I survey."

"John, you are surely going mad, and I with you. For heaven's sake," she entreated, "tell me what you mean!"

"I'll tell you what I mean, little wife," he said. "I mean that I came to San Diego last year during the land boom, went into real estate business and cleared a small fortune. This is your home, and all that is in it belongs to Ruth and John Delano. The ranch and the log cabin were simply a trial of your love. I wanted to find out what kind of stuff my wife was made of."

"And did you find out?" she asked of him, woman-like, not knowing whether to laugh or cry over this great joy.

"Indeed I did. She was weighed in the balance and not found wanting. I know now that her love for me was strong enough to brave all trials for me. Henceforth she shall be queen of my prosperity."

"It was a very pretty little drama you chose to make me take the principal part in," she said, "but I forgive you and I am satisfied if you are."

"Completely," he answered, with a lover's kiss.

"Do you know, dear John," she whispered that night as she held Ruthie up for her papa's good-night kiss, "that I doubt if I can ever be as happy anywhere as I was in that little log cabin of ours, in spite of all the hard work I did. Love never seemed before such a sweet compensation for all of life's trials."

"Well, if that isn't just like a woman," laughed her husband. "Like Lot's wife, forever looking back. Give her heaven, and two to one she'll be sorry she ever left earth."

Ruth only smiled and held her peace. She knew that he would ever hold their log cabin days in sweet and sacred remembrance.—Omaha World.

A Gold Bullet.

From London Answer.

Mr. Fred Leslie used to carry about with him, and once showed to the writer, a good-sized bullet of solid, pure gold, and this peculiar charm had a somewhat curious history.

One of the many millionaires of San Francisco gave the bullet to Mr. Leslie and told how that when he, the giver, at the time a comparatively poor man, was prospecting for gold in the early days of the gold fever in California he came, in a wild, rugged mountain pass, upon a ghastly bleached skeleton, near which was a rusty old revolver.

Examining the skeleton closely the prospector found among the remains the golden bullet. In expianation it may be said that during the period of gold madness the rough, wild miners not uncommonly realized fortunes in a few weeks or months, and many of them indulged in the most outrageous excesses of extravagance, even going the length of having bullets of gold cast for their firearms.

The probability is that the dead man had been shot with one of these or had taken his own life with one. The finder of the bullet discovered a mine which yielded him his great fortune near the skeleton.

The proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a remedy for catarrh, colds and hay fever. It is not a liquid or a snuff, is easily applied into the nostrils. It gives relief at once. 50c.

I had catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm, and from the first application I was relieved. The sense of smell, which had been lost, was restored after using one bottle. I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for catarrh, and it has effected a cure in my case.—H. L. A GREAT SUCCESS.

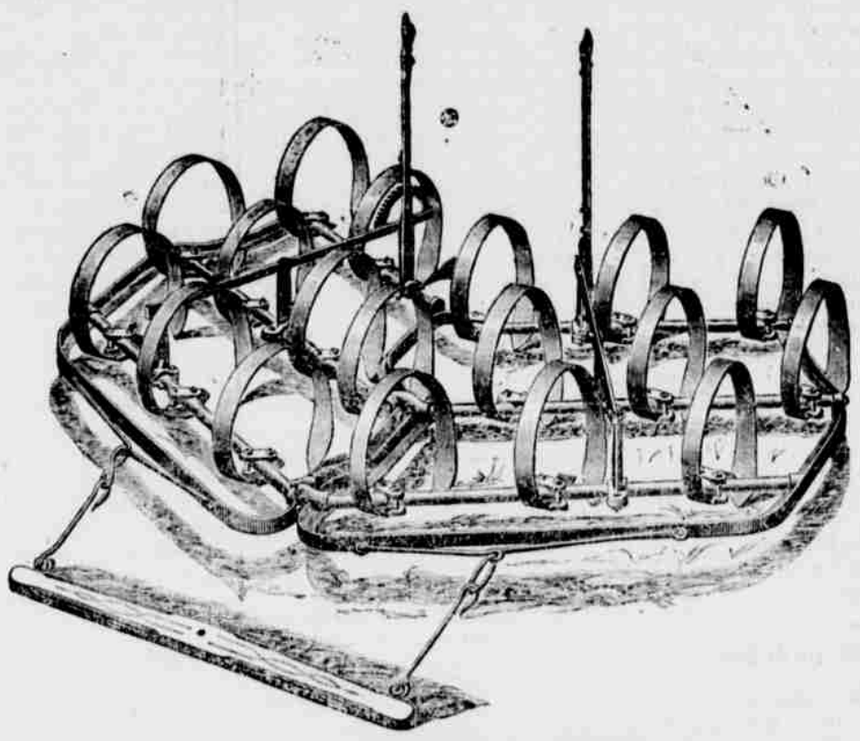
LEADER LEVER SPRING TOOTHED HARROW.

MADE IN BUTTERFLY SHAPE, as shown in cut. This shape has the great advantage over square frame lever harrows that it does not CLOG with grass, weeds, sod or stalks; square frame lever harrows are apt to act somewhat like a RAKE, and soon load up with obstructions, while everything of this nature works out at the sides of the LEADER—a glance at the cut will show the great merit of this feature.

THE FRAME is made of steel pipe, does not load itself up with earth, and is of very easy draft. THE TEETH are held firmly to frame by our Improved Tooth Fastener, which allows the tooth all needed adjustment. No BOLTS through the teeth. Teeth FULL LENGTH, giving them great strength and elasticity.

The Leader Lever Harrow has so many GOOD POINTS that it has met with great favor wherever shown, and we know that parties who buy it will find that it gives Perfect Satisfaction.



It Has been TRIED and the severe tests to which it has been put and the excellent work it does in all kinds of soil, warrant us in recommending it as a perfect LEVER Spring Tooth Harrow.

We also wish you to remember that we handle the Monarch Steel Frame Float Harrow, the best plain float harrow on the market. Thousands in use, and every one doing perfect work. We are in position to furnish you with both LEVER and PLAIN FLOAT Harrows, that, for Strength, Lightness of Draft and Good Working Qualities are unequaled. A Frog, But No Affidavit.

SAID TO HAVE BEEN FOUND LIVING IN THE CENTER OF A LUMP OF COAL.

A Wilkesbarre miner while at work the other day made a wonderful discovery of a large and well formed frog in a mass of anthracite coal blasted from a chamber 300 feet below the surface in Simpson & Watkin's Mount Lookout Colliery at Wyoming.

The discoverer of the rare curiosity is Joseph Johns. He was timbering with another miner James Otts, in a tunnel in the mine and had barred down a large lump of coal when the gleam of light from his lamp fell upon something in the coal. He stooped down and touched the object and was surprised to find it soft and yielding. There was about a square inch of surface exposed at the time and he saw that the thing, whatever it was, was in a cavity. With his pick he very carefully chipped off the coal all around it until the cavity or chamber was fully opened, and there nestling in the hard coal he found a frog.

Some seventeen years ago while working in the mines, he made a similar discovery and had then taken the frog in his hand, shown it to his brother miners and taken it home. But while it was alive and warm when he found it, it died before it had been exposed to the air half an hour. At that time a scientist had told him that if he had enclosed the frog in an air-tight compartment immediately after unearthing it the animal might have lived.

When he made his second discovery on Wednesday this fact at once recurred to his mind and as soon as he had recovered from his surprise and realized what he had found, he ran to his dinner pail and got an air-tight fruit jar in which he had brought the tea for his lunch. Into this he put the frog and closed the lid tightly, excluding all the air and the jar has not since been opened.

The frog at first showed no signs of lite, although it was warm, but after being in the jar about six hours it began to move, and when it had been exposed to the light ten hours, it was quite as lively as any specimen which can be found around the ponnd in Summer. Since then it has continued to be fully wide-awake and stares in wonder at all who look at it.

In appearance it is not very different from an every-day frog, except that its back is nearly black and there are two rows of little hilly protuberances down each side of its spine. Its legs also are peculiarly long and its feet very delicate and tender.

The Advertising.

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always within the bound of reason because it is true; it always appeals to the sober, common sense of thinking people because it is true; and it is always fully substantiated by endorsements which, in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation.

For general family cathartic we confidently recommend HOOD'S PILLS.

There will be seventeen thousand men in the parade at Cleveland's inauguration.

Guy E. Farquhar Esq. of Pottsville is talked of as the successor of the late Judge Green.

Dr. Norvin Green, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, died at Louisville, last Sunday.

It is now predicted that Judge Walter Q. Gresham of Illinois will be Secretary of State in President Cleveland's cabinet.

United States Minister Stevens has established a protectorate over the Hawaiian Islands. The stars and stripes were raised over the public hall, and a proclamation issued. Everything is quiet.

Count de Lesseps, the great French engineer, has been sentenced to five years imprisonment and a fine of 3000 trances for his connection with the Panama canal scandal, in Paris. His son Charles received the same sentence. Gustave Eiffel, who constructed the famous Eiffel tower, must serve two years in prison, and pay a fine of 20,000 frances. Count de Lesseps is 85 years old and may not live to begin serving his sentence, as he is very feeble.

The Latest Cabinet Slate.

FIVE OF THE EIGHT PORTFOLIOS ABSOLUTELY PROVIDED FOR.

WASHINGTON, February 11.

Secretary of State, Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana; Secretary of the Treasury, John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky; Secretary of War, Daniel Lamont, of New York; Secretary of the Navy, James E. Campbell, of Ohio; Postmaster General, Wilson S. Bissell, of New York; Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Attorney General, J. Randolph Tucker, of Virginia, or William L. Wilson, of West Virginia; Secretary of Agriculture, not yet decided upon, but it will go west of the Mississippi river.

This is the Cabinet slate as it is made up by gentlemen who have seen Mr. Cleveland within twenty-four hours and who enjoy the most confidential relations with him. There is said to be absolutely no doubt whatever concerning five of the eight portfolios—State, Treasury, War, Post office and Interior. The Navy, Department of Justice and Attorney Generalship are still in doubt.

The revival of the talk of Ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio, for a Cabinet place comes from an intimate friend of Senator Carlisle. The Ohio delegation would be greatly pleased if Ex-Governor Campbell should enter the Cabinet. He would bring to the place great ability and popularity, and in a social way the Campbells would probably rival the Whitneys of the last Cleveland administration.

Governor Campbell has already practically refused a Cabinet place on the score that his business interests would not permit of his acceptance, and he has also refused all the importunities of his friends to stand as a candidate for Governor of Ohio next fall against McKinley, an opportunity, should he be elected, of much greater importance in a political sense than a Cabinet place.

Nevertheless Mr. Cleveland is said to be very solicitous that Campbell should enter the Cabinet, and has decided to again press him to accept.

With regard to the Attorney Generalship, Mr. Cleveland has decided to give it to the South, but he has not yet made choice between Tucker and Wilson. Mr. Cleveland wants the Secretary of Agriculture to go to the far West for geographical and other considerations. The declination of Governor Boise was a great disappointment to him, and he has not yet determined upon the man to substitute in his place.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13, 1893.

Democrats in Congress are far from being pleased with the financial outlook. The House Ways and Means committee made a favorable report of Representative Bynum's resolution authorizing an investigation of the charge publicly made that Sec. Foster had made a deal with certain New York bankers whereby he was to exchange at par for gold $50,000,000 of U. S. bonds. The fact that New York bankers are seldom philanthropist and that they are known to be furnishing the treasury with gold caused many people to believe this charge; hence the necessity for an investigation. The public wants no secret juggling with the finances of the country. It is only fair to Sec. Foster and the present administration to say that they deny the charge of issuing or of having promised to issue bonds for gold. Still it is believed by some that Sec. Foster, who is now in New York, is there to break up the deal, because of the proposed investigation.

"Silver week" in the House and Senate amounted to nothing more substantial than to make it certain that no silver legislation would take place at the present session. It has been repeatedly stated here within the last ten days that President-elect Cleveland had said he would call an immediate extra session of the next Congress if the present failed to take some action that would stop the purchase of silver by the government, but now that Congress has by votes in both House and Senate given notice of its failure to take such action no one seems to be certain that an early session will be called, and there appears to be a doubt in the minds of quite a number of democrats as to whether Mr. Cleveland ever authorized those statements.

If Mr. Harrison's influence be strong enough to accomplish it the legislation necessary to the annexation of Hawaii is to be rushed through Congress. Mr. Harrison has decided to send a message to Congress recommending annexation and suggesting the terms to be contained in the legislation. To many this appears to be as hasty as was the action of Minister Stevens in establishing a protectorate, and it is certainly going to be done with much less to excuse it. It is assumed to be necessary for this government to endorse the action of Stevens, and that being done what occasion is there for hurrying annexation? It is well known that so long as Hawaii is under the protection of the American flag no European government will dare to interfere. There is a great big nigger concealed somewhere in this Hawaiian wood pile, and his feet will be exposed if there be no undue haste in the matter.

The talk of the republicans on the floors of Congress and in private, on the Pension question, is very different. Privately they admit that if something is not done to reduce them the payments will soon bankrupt the country, but on the floors of Congress they bitterly resist every attempt to reduce the amount paid. The House committee on Appropriations after careful consideration has recommended some amendments to the general Pension Appropriation bills, now being considered by the House, which would if they became laws save $30,000,000 a year, but the republicans are doing everything in their power to prevent the adoption of these amendments. One of the amendments provides for transferring the Pension bureau to the War Department and the detail of army officers to manage it, which would remove it from politics; others provide for a suspension of pensions paid to widows who were not married within five years after the close of the war; to those having a yearly income of $600 or more, and, except in cases of total disability, to alien non-residents.

Unless the republican Senate shall refuse to agree to amendments to the legislative and executive Appropriation bills which have already been passed by the House there will be some radical changes made here on the first of next July. The clerks in the departments will work eight hours instead of seven each day, and will have their annual leave of absence with pay cut down to 15 days. The departments will cease to close on account of the death of ex-officials, and Congress will no longer pay the big prices it has paid in the past for funeral expenses of members who died. Whatever may be said of these amendments they are in the line of democratic economy, and for that very reason they will probably be defeated in the Senate.

The difficulty the Panama Investigation committee has had in getting witnesses to testify has caused the suspicion to be general that influences are at work to prevent the truth being found out. The committee has now gone to New York to see if anything can be got out of the bankers who disbursed the money. Later they will go to Indiana to get ex-secretary Thompson's statement of what he did to earn his salary of $24,000 a year; also what he knows about other money spent.

About Skirts.

The skirt is irrevocably evoluting to greater width and consequent weight and the present chronicler cannot too strongly urge the maxim, "Be moderate." The modes now in vogue are too graceful and convenient, and have too much to commend them, for us to relinquish them without a struggle; and because a few women, always eager for any novelty, no matter how eccentric, have wired ruffles in their skirts, it does not follow that the inconvenient absurdity is la mode. For walking, skirts are short, and simply trimmed around the bottom; for the house they are long, and for evening they are trained, and much more elaborate trimmings are admissible. When there is a deep trimming extending in widely separated bands or ruffles to the knees, a deep facing of crinoline, canvas, or even of horse hair if the trimming is heavy, extends as high as the trimming.

New skirts are cut fuller, from three yards and three-quarters to six yards at the bottom,—this last for evening gowns,—and gored but slightly at the top, a little fullness extending all the way around, either gathered or laid in fine plaits.—From "Modish Skirts," in Demorest's Family Magazine for March.

VETERINARY SCIENCE FOR THE FARMERS.

WRITTEN FOR AND READ AT MILLVILLE FARMERS' INSTITUTE, FEBRUARY 7, 1893 BY C. E. WINNER, V. S., BLOOMSBURG, PENNA.

Medicine must be studied, as a science and as an art; as a science when it under inquires into all the circumstances which diseases become developed, the condition of their existence and into their nature and causes; as an art when it is directed towards the recognition, the prevention and cure of disease. Yes, it is the art of understanding the nature of diseases in order to appreciate their causes, prevent their occurrence, when possible, and to promote their cure.

Unfortunately some form of disease is ever present in this country. Perfect immunity so far as history shows, never has been and it may reasonably be expected never will be known so long as animals exist. This, though not to the agriculturist a pleasant consideration is nevertheless one calculated to generate good by arousing the mind from apathy and stimulating it to inquiry. For as we have means within our reach to lessen mortality, and in many instances to altogether prevent animals contracting disease it behooves us to keep a careful look out for predisposing causes and when discovered, to avoid them as far as possible and when unavoidable to adopt means whereby they may be modified. Man with his superior knowledge exercises from time to time the power of that knowledge for the benefit of his own species and those of the lower animals over whom God has given him control. But though men have written and will continue to write on the manifold diseases to which flesh is heir, yet with all his talent however great it may be, it may truly be said no man possesses all the pathological knowledge contained in the record of his art. Yes, we must go back, back into the lore of our forefathers, combine the opinions of the great ones gone with those present and this with the knowledge we ourselves possess, to form any thing like a trustworthy, comprehensive, scientific and practical treatment.

To know the cause of disease is sometimes to be able to cure it, oftener able to prevent it. To cure disease an early diagnosis is most valuable. By detecting the spark before it is fanned into flame we may be able in many cases to eradicate all that is mischievous or dangerous. But this early detection is no easy task For many diseases are still hidden in mystery, they have alike baffled the medical man and the veterinary surgeon. Their origion is a problem we cannot solve, and their treatment is therefore unsatisfactory and difficult.

Great as the progress of our science has been, much very much remains yet to be done. Nevertheless baffeled as we are from time to time we struggle on finding new courage at each step by the gradual experience we gain. An experience which in right hands may always be turned to good account. Veterinary Sanitary Science has burst upon us like a sunbeam, and chased many a dark cloud away. As in the sister profession so in our own this has now become an advanced study, the great importance of this connecting link between health and disease cannot be lost sight of. The amount of disease due to sanitary neglect has been and still is immense. Defective drain, a badly ventilated cow house, a damp sheep fold, are often the unsuspected roots of many fatal maladies. Prescribed medicines are given, new drugs are tried, while the cause is allowed to remain undisturbed. This evil must be avoided, the spell broken, or disease will still ride rampant. Nature is ever progressive, we may thwart her purpose, but her influence is ever the same, changes are ever taking place, time rolls on and age brings with it many infirmities.

Climate, the nature of the soil, purity of food and water, cleanliness, hereditary weakness are facts that must be observed by the farmer if he would maintain health and avoid disease. The system of inspection though still in many districts insufficient is now more rigid, and by this means the interests of the cattle owners are better protected and their confidence is strengthened in the power of our government. Trade and intercourse are necessary for the weltare of the human family, and man cannot exist without the assistance of certain animals, whose multiplication and improvement constitute an essential feature of civilization. The dangers to which these animals are exposed and through them the well being of mankind, can only be averted by an exact comprehension of the disease to which they are liable, and the establishment of a more complete system of sanitary policy, more efficiently organized and better provided with preventive measure, based on their knowledge.

Many medicines act very differently on different classes of veterinary patients, but this difference is more in degrees than in kind, and depends on difference in organization and function. On the respiratory and urinary system which nearly resemble each other in man and the lower animals, medicines act tolerably uniformly. Thus aconite digitallis and nitre produce very nearly the same results in man, horse, dogs and cattle. Great diversity however occurs in regard to medicine acting on the digestive and nervous system. The more highly any organ or system of organs is developed the more susceptible does it become to the action of medicines and it might be added to diseases also. Thus the highly developed brain of the human being becomes dull and blunt from the influence of opium, chloral and chloriform, whilst in the lower animals they produce change in motor functions and convulsions, because the spinal cord is developed at the expense of the brain.

In the horse the stomach is small the bowels large and vascular, thus nearly two-thirds of the fluid ingest pass off by the bowels, while in man only five per cent pass off by that channel except in disease, and under the influence of aconite, horses never vomit; this is accounted for by the fact that the stomach is small and situated at a considerable distance from the diaphragm and abdominal muscles, and probably to a great extent from the imperfect development of the vomiting center.

The pecularities of the action of medicines in cattle are chiefly referable to their alimentary canal The stomach being so large and divided into four compartments, the first and third which always contain large amount of food, account for the fact that large doses of all medicines are required and that considerable quantities of instant and corrosive poisons can be given with impunity and that purgatives unless given in large quantities, and in solution are so uncertain and tardy in their effects. The effects of medicines are modified to a great extent by the age of an animal. As a rule a one year old colt requires one third the quantity of any medicine given to adult horse, a two year old, one half and a three year old two-thirds, such doses are however only approximative: for you must adapt your dose to the size of the animals. The continued use of a medicine alters its effects. An organ in a state of disease does not act on a medicine in the same manner as in health. Though veterinary medicine has made great advancements during the last few years, still the science is still in its infancy.

Were the laws of health and physiology better understood, how great would be the effects. But let us hope that matters of so great a moment may not always be considered of less importance than the languages of extinct nations or the unimportant facts of a dead history.

Saved His Life

Scrofula—Impure Vaccination—Beyond Hope

But Hood's Sarsaparilla Effected a Perfect Cure.

Joseph Harper
Trenton, N. J.

"We are as sure that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved our son Joseph's life as that the sun shines. Five years ago on board ship our three boys were vaccinated. Joseph had a very sore arm, so bad at one time that we were afraid it would have to be taken off. At length it seemed to get well, but about two months after, he began to complain of soreness and pain in the vaccinated arm. He had occasionally shown some signs of scrofula, but nothing serious. His arm, however, grew worse and worse and became swollen and covered with sores. The inflammation and sores also spread all over his body, and he was a mass of corruption,

Pitiable to Behold,

A misery to himself and almost breaking our hearts with anguish over his dreadful condition. Many a time did I wish he was dead and out of his misery.

"The eruption was especially severe back of his ears and over his head and the lower part of his face. We had to cut off all his hair we could, as it was impossible to comb through the mass of hard crust and matter. Physicians did him no good, and three specialists at the Eye and Ear Hospital said

Nothing Could be Done.

They said it was a blood disease caused by impure vaccination. One night I happened to be reading in a paper about Hood's Sarsaparilla, and decided to try it.

"While taking the first bottle, Joseph did not grow any worse; on the second, we noticed that he was improving, and, slowly but surely, the medicine drove away the disease and won a complete victory. The scales and scabs began to fall off; the sores gradually healed up, and new, smooth and healthy skin formed in place of the disease and corruption. Of course it took time, but improvement was steady until at the end of the year the disease had entirely disappeared, and Joseph stood a strong and healthy boy. He is at school and progressing rapidly in his studies.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal

RHEUMATISM PREVALENT.

Caused by the Sudden Changes of Temperature.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE FOUND RELIEF.

Rheumatism is more prevalent here than ever before.

When this disease fastens upon an individual with its soreness and pain, swelling the joints, rendering him helpless in his movements, and shattering his usefulness, he is indeed an object of pity.

The slight pain in the back, pain or stiffness of the joints or muscles, is a warning indication of an improvished condition of the blood, a low state of health, and if not attended to at once, means rheumatism.

Rheumatism can now be relieved and cured.

Since the introduction of Favorite Remedy, by Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., there has been fewer sufferers than ever before.

Favorite Remedy drives out rheumatic poison from the blood, restores the circulation, strengthens the nerve power.

The best proof of its value is the good it has done.

"I was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for fifteen years, writes Mr. E. P. Tayer, of East Nassau, N. Y. So severe that I was supposed to be a cripple for life. Under physicians treatment I grew worse. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy helped me from the time I first used it, and entirely cured me. Have felt no trace of the disease since, and that was three years ago."

The beautiful daughter of Mr. James Mc Farland, of DeMoines, Ia., was helpless for months with scintic rheumatism. After a few doses of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, she began to grow better, appetite improved, slept well, and continuing its use, was cured.

"I was confined to my bed with rheumatism near my heart, writes Mr. C. L. Seaver, of Burmingham, Conn., and used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy but a short while before it drove the rheumatism out of my system."

Mr. G. Lansing, of Troy, N. Y., had rheumatism so bad that he had to be turned over in bed. After using Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy but a short while was restored to health.

What reason then for suffering with rheumatism or neuralgia. This medicine will help you if given a trial.

STILLWATER ITEMS.

Mr. Dan McHenry is still confined to the house with rheumatism.

Our friend and neighbor Mr. John Sutton and his aged wife in her eightieth year since Christmas and he seventy-seven are in feeble health, especially Mrs. Sutton.

Mr. Sutton Yorks has improved so much with his broken limb that he was able to come on a visit to his father-in law, Mr. Wm. Marr.

Miss Della Harman and Mr. Earnest Albertson were calling on friends at Stillwater, last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Harnald, Mr. Hayman, and Mr. Lee of Millville and White Hall, were visiting friends at Benton, Stillwater, and Forks over Sunday.

There was a sleighing party at Mr. Wm. Stoker's Tuesday night of last week.

Mr. Bruce Drescher with about thirty of his friends drove from Town Line to Stillwater last Thursday and took dinner with his father, Stephen Drescher. They enjoyed themselves very much and returned home in the evening.

Spring Bonnets.

Hats and bonnets for spring are things of beauty. Of course there are a few startling and outre things for those who demand them; but conservative women of quiet and refined taste can all be suited. There is the small turban of fancy straw trimmed with velvet folds, which some women like so much for shopping and traveling and close little capotes of fancy straw and chip. Strings are the color of the trimming, and full two inches wide. All kinds of buds and berries are more used than flowers. Hats have wide brims and low crowns, are bent pinched into many shapes, and trimmed in front, at the side, or back, as is most becoming. The severe, but to some faces most coquettish. Empire poke comes in fine, colored chip, and is trimmed with velvet ribbon in severe lines, and erect ostrich-feathers.—From "Review of Fashions," in Demorest's Family Magazine for March.

Is the Earth Hollow?

The orthodox Icelander believes that the north has an opening through it from pole to pole; in other words, that it is the exact counterpart of a gigantic bead. According to their ideas, all water which flows to the north are drawn thitherward by a suction created through the ocean tumbling downward into the opening or hollow, which they firmly believe to exist. Their authority for this curious belief is the "Utama Saga," a semi-sacred work written early in the fourteenth century. If this ancient volume is to be relied upon one Bjorn Ltefson, a fisherman, who was driven northward by a fierce gale about the year 1291, is the only human being who has ever actually beheld the spot where the waters of all the oceans plunge downward and are not seen again until they have passed entirely through the earth and again appear, bubbling and frothing like a mammoth spring at the South Pole. Symmes, the American Arctic explorer, entertained a somewhat similar notion.

The winds from the North blows sharp and keen, and bad effects of colds are seen. One Minute Cough Cure so safe and sure, will quickly perform a wondrous cure. W. S. Rishton, Druggist. 10-14-1y

The ladies have been considerably exercised recently over the prospect of crinoline becoming again the prevailing fashion, as it was twenty five years ago. No more unbecoming and ridiculous garb could be invented. And besides it was very uncomfortable for the wearer. A woman could not safely sit down without first carefully adjusting her hoop skirts. The only redeeming feature about the fashion was that on a windy day there was frequently exposed to public gaze, shapely extremities of the human anatomy which are ordinarily intended to be hidden from sight. But it is not likely that the fashion will prevail. The Princess of Wales has tried on a hoop skirt, and declares that she will never disfigure herself with such a garb, and that settles it.

A. B. CATHCART, P. M.

On monday last a telegram was received by Dr. I. W. Willits announcing the death of J. G. Worthington near Cincinnati. The remains arrived here on Thursday morning, and the funeral was held at the house of Dr. Willits at 10 o'clock. Rev. W. C. Leverett conducted the services. Mr. Worthington was a son-in-law of Mrs Willits. His wife and three children survive. He held the position of mechanical engineer to the "Big Four" railroad, and resided at Hartwell, a suburb of Cincinnati.

The remains were taken from here to Catawissa for interment.

Mr. Worthington died suddenly from an apoplectic stroke. He had a cold, but was about well, and on Sunday he complained of a rumbling in his head. Mrs. Worthington suggested sending for a doctor but he objected. She left the room, and in a moment heard a fall, and found him dead on the floor.

Success in everything depends largely upon good health. De Witt's Little Early Riser are little health producing pills. See the point? Then take an "Early Riser." W. S. Rishton, Druggist. 10-14-1y

School Girls Lured to Ruin.

WARRANTS SAID TO BE OUT FOR SEVERAL SHAMOKIN BUSINESS MEN.

A dispatch from Shamokin says that it is stated that warrants have been issued for the arrest of thirty-five men prominent in business circles there as a consequence of the confession made by a school-girl. In accounting to her father for an unusually prolonged absence from home she admitted that she and many other High School pupils had been decoyed by a married woman at Sunbury and in her home introduced to the business men now under shadow of arrest.

The woman implicated by the confession has fled and Northumberland county is convulsed by the scandal.

Since the above was in type the whole story is denied as utterly false.

Fashionable Livery.

The well known horseman has opened a fashionable livery in connection with his boarding stable at the Exchange Hotel Stables, where fine turnouts can be obtained, single or double. He has well broken and safe saddle and driving horses for ladies, all at reasonable rates. Orders left at the Exchange Hotel will receive prompt attention. Drivers furnished when desired.

GENERAL LIVERY.

C. E. Hower has added to his livery a general line of wagons, sleighs &c., and is prepared to fill all orders for good safe livery rigs. He also has large wagons for two or four horse loads.

EAST BENTON.

Miss Laura Wenner of Bendertown expects to visit New York city soon. She will call to see her brother, the Doctor at Milford in her trip. She will start on the 18th inst, and will remain one month when she will return replenished with millinery goods purchased in New York city, when she will supply her customers with hats and other articles in her line cheaper than ever before. She will open up at Bendertown, April 1st.

The recent rains have rendered the roads extremely icy.

Some one said that the back bone of winter was broke, but it got patched up with ice.

THE COLUMBIAN should be in every home. So many people take only one newspaper, and often discontinue that to take another. I never stop newspapers, but frequently make additions. I take five or six and have room for that many more, but not the means to get them.

Several horses have died in the neighborhood recently without any apparent signs of disease. They were well at night and found dead in the stable next morning.

The slushy condition of roads render them impassable for children to attend school.

Bruce Cary of Cambra expects to abandon the hotel business this spring.

Stanley McHenry of Cambra still plies his vocation as a music teacher. Stanley is an expert.

In Paint the best is the cheapest. Strictly Pure White Lead is best; properly applied it will not scale, chip, chalk, or rub off; it firmly adheres to the wood and forms a permanent base for repainting. Paints which peel or scale have to be removed by scraping or burning before satisfactory repainting can be done. When buying it is important to obtain properly made. Time has proven that white lead made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion possesses qualities that cannot be obtained by any other method of manufacture. This process consumes four to six months time, and produces the brand that has given White Lead its character as the standard paint.

John T. Lewis & Bros.

is the standard brand of strictly pure Lead made by the "Old Dutch" process. You get the best in buying it. You can produce any desired color by tinting this brand of white lead with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

For sale by the most reliable dealers in Paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

Rupture

J. A. SHERMAN, HERNIA SPECIALIST, respectfully notifies the public, especially the many who have called at his New York office during his absence that he has returned from his European office, London, England, where his successful treatment and the marvelous cures resulting from it, received the approbation of the most eminent Surgeons of Europe.

His fame soon spread, crowding the London office with the victims of Hernia anxious for relief. Patients who had endured long years of suffering came to consult him from India, Russia, Germany, Belgium, France and other countries. The remarkable cures made in London of chronic cases of patients, who had been at the various hospitals and under the care of the most eminent English Surgeons without obtaining relief, consulted J. A. Sherman, and were at once relieved and eventually restored to a state of soundness through his method to the astonishment of the eminent Surgeons who had formerly treated them. In the case of Mr. Henry James, who had been a great sufferer for over 30 years, his wonderful and complete cure was certified to by that distinguished Surgeon and operator on rupture at Kings College, John Wood, F. R. S., F. R. C. S., F. R. C., also Dr. Edward Bellamy, Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, Surgeon to Charing Cross Hospital, etc., Sir Henry Thompson, Surgeon at University College, London, and others.

J. A. Sherman's extensive practice in the treatment of Hernia in its various forms with a success unparalled in all previous ages, is of the highest value to those who are afflicted with rupture and hope to be once more sound. In J. A. Sherman's treatment there is no operation or restriction from labor, while there is relief from the torment and injury of wearing trusses and security from that terrible condition known as strangulated rupture, to which every victim of Hernia is daily subject. His Book of Information and indisputable proofs is mailed to those who send 10 cents. His Book of Photographic likeness, showing the condition of patients before and after treatment and cure, is sent by express on receipt of 25 cents. Call on or address,

A BACHELOR'S MISGIVING.

I have thought of getting married
When I've seen thee, Mary Jane,
With thy dainty silks and satins,
With thy crinoline and train;
But a whisper came across me,
Like a sign with omen rife,
"Ah, 'tis very well to marry,
But oh, canst thou keep a wife?"

If the last new bonnet suits thee,
Canst thou wear it still the same,
Though a newer pattern tempt thee,
Lately handed down to fame?
Will a dress or two content thee
When stern fashion orders more;
And a solitary head-dress do
Instead of half a score?

But they tell me I am raving,
To expect so strange a thing,
And they laugh to scorn my musings,
And the hopes to which I cling;
So I fear I must resign thee,
And a bachelor remain,
Yet I never can forget thee,
Oh, too costly Mary Jane?

TAKEN ALIVE OUT OF A 'GATOR.

Uncle Cæsar Tells of the Escape of His Dog and a Rabbit.

Uncle Cæsar was standing a few days ago with his old flintlock musket in his hand near an old fashioned rail fence, says the Atlanta Constitution, when all at once he heard a terrible rattling and yelping up in the woods near the saw grass, and looking up he saw old Snip, his bench-legged flea dog, making the leaves fly like a whirlwind, and immediately in front of him a swamp rabbit was flying.

The rabbit shot through the fence like an arrow; the same instant the little dog darted through the same hole in the fence and all was quiet.

Uncle Cæsar says that he ran to the spot and saw a large alligator lying with his mouth open, into which both the hare and dog had run, perhaps thinking it a hole in a log.

He at once sent a bullet into the right eye of the 'gator, who whirled over on his back, when Uncle Cæsar pulled out his old pruning knife and made a long and deep incision in the stomach of the 'gator, when, to his astonishment, the rabbit and dog both jumped out and flew down towards the water.

The Private Mark.

Scene: Rue de Baxter. The second hand clothing emporium of Isidor Mentz. Time 12 m.

Isidor—Levi, my boy, vare are you?

Levi—I vos going to lunch, farder.

"No lunch to-day, my poy. Peezness ahead mit pleasure. I musdt go oudt for two hours. I leave de store in charge, und I geeve you der brivate mark should a sucker gusdomer come in. Every ardicle has a tag mit it. Undt if der vas one little pencil dot, it means one dollar; two pencil dots, two dollars; dree pencil dots, dree dollars, and so on up."

"All right, farder."

Isidor departs and returns before two o'clock.

"Vell, Levi, how's peezness?"

"Had a gusdomer."

"No! Did you sold him?"

"For sure!"

"Vot you sold him, my poy?"

"A pair of pants."

"For how much, my poy?"

"Sixteen dollars."

"Vot!!! Sixteen dollars?"

"Yes, farder."

"God plesa der flies!" exclaimed the father, with uplifted hands.

Cool.

The late Seth Sampson, of Maine, who was commonly spoken of as "Uncle Seth," was well-known in his native State as a fearless advocate of temperance.

At one time, according to the Eastern State, while attending court in a liquor trial, he was spending the evening in the public room of the village tavern, when a bullet shattered the window and passed near his head. There was great excitement, of course, but Uncle Seth remained unmoved. He had been in danger of his life before. He said nothing till the uproar subsided; then he remarked quietly:

"I wish I knew who fired that bullet."

"What would you do?" asked a bystander.

"I'd make him fix that glass."

Johnny's Arithmetic.

"I'm going to see if you know anything about arithmetic, Johnny. How many are ten times two cents?" asked Uncle George.

"Four," said Johnny, innocently.

"Nonsense!" said Uncle George.

"Bet you an apple and leave it to papa."

"Done," said Uncle George."

"Pa," cried Johnny, "ain't ten times two cents four nickels?"

"Yes," said papa, and Johnny got the apple.—Harper's Bazar.

Slow Torture.

Teacher—In China criminals are frequently sentenced to be kept awake until insanity and death result. Now, how do you suppose they keep from falling asleep?

Little Girl (eldest of a small family)—I guess they gives 'em a baby to take care of.—Good News.

Consistent.

"It ees, howefer," said the distinguished foreigner, as he concluded his story, "simply a matter of heard-said."

"You mean 'hear-say,' of course, Count."

"A-h-h; but zis was told me some time ago."—Puck.

Reliable Information.

"Lieut. Totten says the world is coming to an end soon."

"Who's Lieut. Totten?"

"He's the—er—er—why, he's the fellow who says the world is coming to an end."—Judge.

Beggars.

Jack—She is a wonderful girl. She simply beggars description.

Tom—Well, that description has my sympathy. She has beggared me too.—Exchange.

IS CRINOLINE COMING?

HOW SOME FASHION AUTHORITIES VIEW THE POSSIBILITY.

The engrossing question among women continues to be, Are we to have crinoline? Ernest Redfern, of the well known firm, when the question was asked him, said "I've seen no crinoline. It's all newspaper talk. The agitation about it over here comes of you Americans looking a head and anticipating coming fashions. The English don't do that; if the crinoline does come it will not be adopted in England till it has become firmly established in France and America. The English take fashions as they come, and they will take crinoline if it comes with exceptional slowness because the princess of Wales has pronounced against it.

"There is no doubt, however, that a radical change in the fashion of women's clothes is at hand. I'm sorry, too, for I think the fashions of the last three or four years have been the prettiest in the century. But the change has come and it will be a marked one. All costumers appreciate this. Ordinarily old stock is available in some way, but next Fall the gowns of last Fall will be absolutely unusable.

"The stiff skirts being the change Last Fall we put a few inches of horsehair cloth in the bottom of skirts: now we use it from the knee down, and by Easter the whole skirt will be lined with it. It is these stiffened skirts that have raised the hue and cry about crinoline. They have grown fuller, too, and they are taking to themselves frills. A flounce below the knee is now fashionable. In the Spring more flounces will be added, perhaps, and it is possible that by next Fall something like crinoline will be needed to keep this ample skirt in place.

"My customers regard the suggestion of crinoline variously. Some of the young women are inclined to welcome it as a new and strange device, one wholly untried by them, and consequently to be desired. They have heard so much about it, their curiosity is whetted, and they would not mind trying the fashion for awhile. Their mothers and other matrons, who know what the crinoline is, are horrified when it is mentioned. They think it ugly and inconvenient, and dread its being forced upon them.

"It is, in fact, not adapted to present condition of existence. When it was popular before there were no elevated railroads, fewer street cars, no hansom cabs. The cities were less jostle and confusion, and fewer crowds. The hoop skirt was an incident in a slow age, when women were less independent, took life more leisurely, and went about much less than they do to-day. Take the one impediment hansom cabs. Persons in London do most of their traveling about the city in these vehicles. A hoop skirt in one would be an impossibility. There is dangerous feature, too, in the adoption of these 'cages,' particularly in England, where open fires prevail. More than one woman has been fatally injured from her distended skirts sweeping into an open fire as she passed it.

"And would the great army of business women wear crinoline? I don't believe they would, at least while at their occupations. You don't find the women of business adopting any of the pronounced, exaggerated fashions for her office use. She doesn't affect big sleeves or anything of that sort in her work gowns. At least one actress is wholly opposed to the crinoline, and that is Eleanor Duse. We got her up a magnificent gown lately, put the finest silk in it to make it stand out in the most approved style, and sent it home. Duse was disgusted. She would have none of it. Clinging drapery was what she wanted, and we had to make the gown over for her. And now, to conclude, we are going to have full skirts, and stiff skirts, and slowly, about next Fall, something like the crinoline, yet a surprise in that it will not resemble the old hoop skirt. That will not be revived."

Lord & Taylor affirm the return of the old wire cage, so little changed that its old wearers will promptly recognize it. At Stern's and at Altman's and at several of the fashionable women dressmakers of that city the same tale was told. All realize its approach and all deprecated it. Their customers did not want it, but it was noticeable that they were chary of ordering dresses that could not, if necessary, meet its demand. In point of fact, a few hoop skirts have actually been sold in the city, though their wearing is still delayed. And a most significant additional fact is that the manufacturers of Spring cloaks have been asked to weave their goods in dress lengths of twelve and fourteen yards, instead of as heretofore of six and eight.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
